

ALYONA LI
ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

A textile artist based in Kazakhstan, whose work explores the connections between cultures, traditions, and human experiences. Through weaving, felt, embroidery, and mixed media, she creates original artworks inspired by cultural symbols, traditional ornaments, folklore, mythology, and the shared heritage of different peoples. Her artistic practice brings traditional craftsmanship into a contemporary context, celebrating cultural diversity and the stories, values, and symbols that connect humanity.

Based in Almaty, Kazakhstan, she is a textile artist whose creative journey is driven by curiosity, a love of handmade art, and an interest in different cultures and traditions.

Working with weaving, felt, embroidery, and mixed materials, she creates textile artworks and small handmade objects. Her inspiration comes from cultural symbols, traditional ornaments, folklore, mythology, and the craftsmanship of different peoples.

She is particularly interested in how art and traditional crafts can tell stories, preserve memories, and reveal connections between cultures. Through her work, she explores the beauty of cultural diversity and the shared elements of human experience.